GEA project aims to enhance “environmental literacy” of adults, in order that they are able to contribute to informed decision-making and establish stronger adaptation capacities of their community, thus empowering people to adopt more sustainable lifestyles.

Objectives

- To increase adults’ opportunities to engage with their communities in environmental & climate actions
- To develop an open e-learning programme for adult educators and a set of resources aimed at increasing eco-consciousness and community engagement
- To encourage a shared decision-making process and co-design of environmental policies
- To ensure wide and sustainable access to a set of innovative results for stronger environmental literacy

Activities

- Participatory field-study, complementing desk-based research on citizen science, environmental challenges and actions
- Development and delivery of the GEA e-learning programme, empowering adult educators to promote community-based environmental action
- Delivery of environmental awareness-action plans with disadvantaged adults
- Set-up local environmental committees and development of an innovative co-designed policy initiative booklet

Results

- Interactive report;
- E-learning kit for adult educators;
- Sustainability kit for environmental awareness-raising;
- Co-designed policy initiatives booklet
